

University of Toronto Enrolment Services Office, Medical Sciences

The Enrolment Services Office is the symbolic front door of the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Toronto. Embodying an open and inclusive atmosphere, the new space is bright, cheerful and invites users in.

The Medical Sciences Building is the largest single building on the University's St. George Campus. With so many staff, faculty and students working in the building every day, the Faculty of Medicine has undertaken the task of making itself more accessible and visible to its community of users. As part of this initiative, the Enrolment Services Office was relocated to a prominent location on the ground floor of the building, enticing in its new expression of large windows, glass doors, and warm materials.

A number of private offices for staff, as well as open workstations in a configuration that maximizes access to natural light are punctuated by a series of formal and casual meeting spaces located throughout. Further enhancements to the project include a fresh material palette, unified millwork, new furnishings and clearly integrated signage to facilitate wayfinding.
